Creating Healthy Food Environments through Partnerships like Farm to Institution

Interested in bringing fresh, local produce and other products to your hospital, business, or organization? The South Carolina Farm-to-Institution Program wants to work with you! This Working Well webinar provides participants with an overview of our core principles to create a healthy food environment and the importance of establishing food service partnerships. It also provides an overview of the SC Farm-to-Institution Program including: program components, how organizations can get involved, opportunities for technical assistance, and available resources.
